SEN. POTTER REPORTS

From Washington

EXTORTION, murder and theft by certain union bosses, as revealed by the Senate rackets committee for almost two years, have shocked the nation. The sordid tale, culminating recently in the horrible death by burning of a teamster thug, has sparked a number of letters from rank-and-file union members who have pealed to me for legislative safeguards against the criminal elements in their midst.

There is considerable doubt whether a protective law will be enacted this year. The extremely moderate labor bill, passed almost unanimously by the Senate, has been bottled up in the House. In my view, Congress has a mandate to act. It is failing a solemn duty and flouting public opinion if it leaves Washington without protecting union workers from these offenses.

A HIGHLY-PLACED Commerce department official recently confessed in public that petroleum and steel products are leaking into Soviet bloc countries. I am told that aviation gas has gone into Prague, soft sheet steel into the USSR itself, bunker fuel to Russian ships, and lubricating oil to Rumania. Behind the iron curtain, if this is so, it is in direct defiance of the Battle Act. In the best interests of the United States, no such strategic items — even in the smallest quantity — should be permitted to squeak through. Steel and oil, as is well known, have a war potential.

I am looking into the matter now and if the facts justify it, will recommend a Congressional investigation. I would want to know first if steel or oil is slipping through our restrictive barriers; second, to what extent these violations are occurring; and third, whether we should stiffen penalties for the lawbreakers.

ANOTHER 11,000 Michigan farm families are receiving rural mail service under an extension ordered by the Post Office early this month. For some time I have been urging the Postmaster General to include additional families. After some study, he ordered an expansion touching 300,000 rural homes throughout the United States. Back in 1933, four families to the square mile were required before extensions were authorized. This was liberalized to three, and the latest action cuts it to two families per mile.

ALAN DUTTON, blonde, seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dutton of 500 Gallett Lake Road, Jackson, is one of 51 outstanding young people visiting the nation's Capital for the Seventh Annual National Safe Driving Teen Age Road Race. Alan represents the State of Michigan in this worthy effort to build good driving habits among young people, and incidentally, an outstanding Michigan firm, the Chrysler Corporation, is a principal Road Race sponsor.

UNION CITY was so named because the Coldwater and St. Joseph rivers unite at this point. In abolitionist days Union City was a station on the Underground Railroad.

Best wishes.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

"Consumers Marketing Information Cooperating with County Extension Service"

Peaches are plenty for good eating but what should I do about freezing peaches for use later in the season?

Should I buy peaches to freeze? Do I have freezer space? What will they cost? Do I have the time to prepare peaches for freezing?

These are some of the questions you need to answer for yourself as you shop for peaches in markets this month and next.

For freezing, one good guide is "a peach that's good to eat today is good to freeze". Varieties on the market now through September 1st and that resist browning include Redhaven, Fairhaven, Harkness and Kalmbein. After September 1st, expect Red Skins and Elbertas.

Follow these directions for freezing peaches as given in the Michigan State University Circular, No. 21 "Freezing Foods for Michigan Homes".

Choose plump, firm to full ripe peaches without blemishes or bruises. Smaller sizes freeze just as well if they are mature and ripe. Make 40 or 50 per cent sirup by adding 4 cups hot water to 3 cups sugar. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves, then boil for five minutes. Cool the sirup before using.

To prevent browning of peaches, add ascorbic acid to sirup just before pouring over the sliced peaches. Use three-fourths teaspoon of ascorbic acid crystals to each quart of cooled sirup. Or if you get the ascorbic acid in tablet form, 1000 milligrams should be used for each quart of sirup. Ascorbic acid can usually be bought in a drug store.

Peel peaches, remove the pits. Cut each half into 4-6 pieces. It is usually convenient to slice the peaches right into the freezer containers, covering with cool sirup as you work. Leave about one inch of headspace, add a crumpled piece of waxed paper or aluminum foil to hold the peaches under the sirup. Seal the cartons, label, and freeze at once.

Pictured above is an exterior view of the new George Mason Memorial Chapel presented to the State of Michigan recently by his son, Jack Mason, in a ceremony marking the dedication of the chapel located in the wilderness area on the South Branch of the AuSable. The wilderness area containing 2,500 acres and 14 miles of river frontage was also bequeathed to the State of Michigan by the late industrial leader. At the side is an interior view of the chapel which is most impressive in its simple and rustic architecture.

A bushel of peaches will give from 32 to 48 pints of peaches for freezing. When peaches cost $3.00 to $4.00 a bushel, this means a cost of 15 to 17 cents per pint, including sugar, containers and ascorbic acid.

The American Purpose . . .

Communist spokesmen have long conducted a ceaseless propaganda war against the United States. The charges are many and varied. We are accused, for instance, of being materialistic and imperialistic. It is said that under capitalism the worker is exploited, and that minorities, especially the Negro, are grossly abused.

Americans are frequently at a loss to effectively answer these and kindred accusations. A particularly good set of answers is provided in the last chapter of The American Cause, (Henry Regnery Company, Chicago), the most recent work of the distinguished economist and teacher, Russell Kirk.

We are materialistic says Dr. Kirk, "only in the sense that all men, everywhere, always have employed most of their time in getting and spending." Our material achievement has made possible notable cultural achievement. We spend more per head on formal education than any other country, and we have more churchgoers per capita than any other great state. We have splendid libraries and museums, and we have produced a great national literature. By comparison, the Soviet Union is materialistic to an extreme. In his words: "... culture, leisure, and all the works of the mind are conscripted by the Communists to serve in the materialistic class struggle." Thereby, "the Communists have dried up the springs of creative imagination."

He also finds that "America is the least imperialistic, probably, of all great powers in all history." Time and time again we have withdrawn from other lands after waging victorious wars. We could have annexed Mexico in 1846 and Cuba in 1898 — we did not. We voluntarily gave the Philippines independence once Japan was driven out. The Soviet Union, on the other hand, has taken over state after state. She has established and maintained by force puppet governments under the complete control of the Kremlin. Dr. Kirk states that "no country of western Europe, even at the height of the age of European imperialism, ever behaved so ruthlessly as the Russian and Chinese communist imperialists."

Under capitalism in this country, he goes on, the fruits of the system have been very widely shared. Our living and working standards certainly need no apology. Under Communism, by contrast, the "capitalists" are commissars and top officials. Their authority is supreme. They can and do impose miserable working standards, at subsistence wages. The state is the only employer, and unions, where they exist, are agencies of the state. Dr. Kirk concludes, "Whatever flaws there may be in the American economic system, they are indistinguishable by the side of the pitiless economic servitude of the Soviets."

Dr. Kirk shows the infinite superiority of American justice to that of Russia, where the courts and the tribunals exist not to protect the individual against injustice, but to advance the purposes of the dictatorship. He shows, too, the enormous progress that has been made by minorities, primarily the Negro, in this country. Communism's black contrast, has the without history brutally and systematically stamped out minorities of all kinds — economic and political, religious and racial, and it is still doing so.

What, finally, is the American purpose? At the end of his book Dr. Kirk defines it in these words: "Americans do not aspire to make the world into one vast uniform United States. Their present high hope is simply that, God willing, they may keep the world from being crushed into the iron mold of Soviet collectivism."

A follow-up letter was received from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bear, of Rock, Arkansas, who accompanied me to the National Forest Archery Tournament. In that letter she wished to thank me for the beautiful archery bow which I had given her. She also mentioned that she and Mr. Bear had been in contact with me for years by mail, but I had never been that far north. I was much impressed with the fact that she was particularly fond of the beautiful archery bow which I had given her. She also mentioned that she and Mr. Bear had been in contact with me for years by mail, but I had never been that far north. I was much impressed with the fact that she was particularly fond of the beautiful archery bow which I had given her.

When I spoke to you after the tournament I tried to find Mr. Bear and thank him too but the last I saw of him he was walking out of town on his way home. I felt that he might be tired and since he was so small a part of that tremendous project this letter will have to thank him. I had never been to a National Archery Tournament before and I must confess I had no idea of the vast amount of work which had to be done. I would like to speak to each one personally who had a part in it but since that is impossible I will try to thank the best I can. In the first place I didn't meet you. I didn't like the hospitality in Grayling for the Archers was almost overwhelming. We were treated as strangers. Next I want to thank you and Bear personally for your gracious hospitality and extend to you an invitation to visit us if we ever in Arkansas. I'm sorry I can't shoot a bow arrow very well since I would like to be more a part of such a group. Actually until this a lot of archery talk had gone on and one of the other. I had heard of their habits for not killing deer, but I have always said they are the greatest sportsmen as a group, than any other type of outdoor sports-people I've ever been around. Mrs. Bear I had a wonderful time and enjoyed seeing your beautiful state and I just hope to come back some day. I'm not writing for Frank because I'm sure he will write Mr. Bear himself. Frank loves archery and he has to be an office all day and I think it's good for his health to have this interest which is really much more than a hobby. The very best to you and Mr. Bear and all the good people of Grayling.

Buyer... vs. Seller

Most of us lead a double life.

One minute we're a BUYER. The next minute we're a SELLER... of goods, services, time, or talents.

Of course, there's some incompatibility in a Buyer-Seller combination. About like you'd expect in a dog-and-cat mixture.

Consequently, we sometimes get to playing our part as Mr. Buyer with such enthusiasm we forget that our other self, Mr. Seller, has to put dollars in our pocket before our Mr. Buyer self can spend them out of it.

And every time we, as Mr. Buyer, take one of those dollars out of circulation here by spending it out of town, we shrink Mr. Seller's market so it's a little harder for him to get us some more dollars.

It's too bad we don't get more teamwork out of our two personalities. When Mr. Buyer is cutting Mr. Seller's throat, we need to recall that they are both using the same throat.
